Why Global Studies?

Pinewood's Lower School curriculum includes broader global study as part of a distinctive educational journey. Students are immersed in the country of study for the entire year learning everything from culture and history, to language and current events.

Our year-long global study culminates in a "Global World's Fair" each spring.

- Global Studies teaches students more than just one language; it teaches students how to learn any language.
- Global Studies stimulates curiosity about the world in which we live.
- Global Studies examines the language, history, geography, culture, and current events in a specific country or region.
- Global Studies examines the relationships between different countries around the globe.
- Global Studies expands the horizons of children who live in less-diverse communities.
- Global Studies focuses on cultures and countries and the issues they face; developing an understanding of the impact our actions have on the world.
- Global Studies develops skills and attitudes which enable students to become active global citizens.
